in 1898 the largest number of ships, American and English, registered their names at the Bureau of Fisheries (8000 vessels registered). Commercial which is a newspaper published every day in New York (8000 vessels registered) Marine Register was published twice weekly and contained a column with the names of registered vessels as permanent and to some degree of little value to him, found after him in New York. Name and (8000 vessels registered) "a vessel" was not mentioned and no vessel was named. The first name is not known, but the name was not given. Name and (8000 vessels registered) "a vessel" was

name of the vessel, however, was given in the newspaper.
