LL14/65

JOAO ALVARES FAGUNDES.—Halifax, Mar. 20. — A Press report from St. John's, NF., states: All but one of the 68 crew members on board the Portuguese trawler Joao Alvares Fagundes were saved on Thursday (Mar. 18) when the vessel was sliced in two by an Icelandic trawler (NARFI). The Portuguese trawler was hit broadside. Sixty-seven crew members were picked up by several other ships in the area, including a French ship and several other Spanish and Portuguese trawlers. Information on the sinking reached here on Friday with the crew of another Portuguese trawler, the Sam Tiago. The men said they had learned of details of the accident by radio. The sinking occurred on Thursday afternoon somewhere off the east coast of Labrador while the vessel was engaged in fishing operations. — "The Chronicle-Herald." (See issue of Mar. 23.)
