

John Cockerill no 643-H
Sidelights.

It is submitted the Hamburg Surveyors be requested to inform Messrs M. Lehmann & Co. that the Society's rules contain no requirements regarding the construction and details of sidelights.

It is observed that in some respects the scantlings are less than those recommended by the British Engineering Standards Association and it is suggested that these be amended to be in accordance therewith.

If Messrs Cockerill desire that the sidelights be inspected during construction the Surveyors should arrange for a copy of the specification and scheme of testing to be forwarded to this office when the case will receive further consideration.

The plans should be returned to the Hamburg Surveyors.
