SOURCE OF INFORMATION

24/1/66

Lisbon, Jan. 22. — The crew of trawler SANTA MAFALDA were rescued to-day after the ship's rudder failed and the vessel drifted onto rocks below Barras Fortress, at the mouth of the River Tagus. Some men were saved by lifeboats from a pilot vessel and others were brought to safety by breeches buoy between the trawler and the fortress. Heavy seas battered the trawler, which was listing heavily to starboard on the rocks. The crash against the rocks is said to have caused leaks in the hull, and the engine-room is reported to be almost completely flooded.—British United Press.

16/2/66

SANTA MAFALDA.—London, Feb. 15.—Trawler Santa Mafalda: The following messages have been received from Lisbon:
 Dated Jan. 25: Santa Mafalda: When leaving Lisbon for fishing grounds, rudder motor failed and rudder jammed to starboard, causing vessel to run aground.
 Dated Feb. 11: Santa Mafalda: Salvage has proved impossible because of heavy seas. Vessel broke in two on Feb. 2 and owners have abandoned vessel. Some equipment has been salvaged. (See issue of Jan. 24.)
