

Steam Trawler "FLINT". (Now named "ARGO")

This vessel was built under Special Survey during the War and was classed "100A-" "Steam Trawler" "For Government Service".

In accordance with the usual practice particulars were not inserted in the Register Book but were printed in the Special Register Book.

It is now learned that the vessel has been sold to Norwegian Owners and converted for the carriage of refrigerated cargoes. The vessel is now trading, and in reply to enquiry the Bergen Surveyor states that she is classed with the Bureau Veritas and that the Owners do not desire to maintain Lloyd's Register classification.

It is therefore submitted that the vessel's class be withdrawn from the "Ghost" Book and that her particulars should be inserted in the ordinary Register Book as a disclassed vessel.
