 Survey Due Boiler Survey due 11,23.

This case last received the consideration of the Committee on the 6th ultimo, when the Lisbon Surveyor wrote he was informed by the Owners' Superintendent Captain that as the vessel would only make one more voyage before being handed back to Transpôrtes Maritimos do Estado, they did not intend to hold the Boiler Survey or go to any further expense with her, and that after this voyage the vessel would be laid up.

In the circumstances the Committee deferred action for a time.

On the 17th ultimo the Lisbon Surveyor wrote he was informed by the charterers of this vessel that the Boiler Survey would be carried out on her return to Lisbon about the end of May and that the vessel would probably be drydocked if a dock were available, as they had chartered her for a further period of three months.

The Lisbon Surveyor now writes the vessel is due in Oporto this week and will then proceed to Lisbon and that he does not believe the Boiler Survey or other surveys will be held, as she is chartered for a further three months, when she will be handed back to the Government.
