

Steam Trawler "GAUL".

Messrs. Taylor & Tomlinson rang up from Fleetwood to say that the crew of this vessel is at present on board the ship and they desire to send her to sea immediately, but owing to her having been laid up for so long they have overlooked the fact that the Boiler Survey and screwshaft survey are overdue.

They trust that the Committee will see their way to allow these surveys to stand over for two or three months as they do not wish to have the vessel's class withdrawn.

They are writing in tonight to confirm this message and will be glad to have a reply as early as possible tomorrow.

TAM

14th May, 1924.

© 2021

Lloyd's Register
Foundation