ANS'D

29th Nov. 1907

The Secretary,
London.

Sir,

In reply to the enquiry in your letter of 28th inst. I beg leave to state that the foreboard of the new steamer "Ganelon" is set off from a statutory deck line placed two inches above the iron deck at side. Also the stern boards in the openings at the after end of the bridge are fitted in riveted channels. Repitting the omission of these details,

I am, Sir,

your obedient servant
