ENCLOSURE.

23rd November, 1908.

Dear Sirs,

A. In reply to your letter of the 20th instant respecting the account rendered to you for the fees and expenses due for the special survey during construction of the Engines of the S.S. "CONSORT", I have to state that the charge of £1.1.0 made by the Society's Surveyors at Hull for the examination and testing of the steam pipe is quite in order and is not included in the amount of the account sent you, which is therefore correct and is returned herewith.

I may explain that a separate fee is chargeable when steam pipes for a new vessel are examined and tested at a port other than that at which the engines are being made.

I am, Dear Sirs,

Yours faithfully,

Secretary.
