3.0. That we lift the lifting in fore-hold and in after-hold under the hatchways, and 4.0. That we open and empty the boilers for inspection. If this extensive examination could give up the extension of time from February to July which would only be a month we would be greatly obliged and the good condition of the hull might be a reason for the Committee to reconsider the time and amount of the extension of time.

The examination could perhaps be called the "I. part" of the examination. The "I. part" of the examination should be completed by the 1st of March 1914.

We have not yet arranged to get our proposal accepted. We have not yet received the offer and really for nearly what we have offered.

The "I. part" of the examination is now started and only the "I. part" of the examination is now started.
