I do not find there was any request made by the Barrow Ship Building Co. for Mr. Parker's attendance in this instance, but as the Boiler was of an experimental character (failing on its first trial) and alterations were being made to it as per plans forwarded by Mr. Miles, it was necessary it should be inspected if the vessel was to retain the class assigned to her.

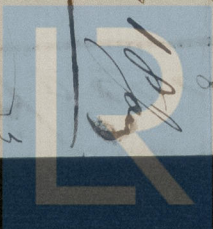

After Mr. Parker's visit the Barrow Co. requested a copy of his report, which request was granted so far that extracts from it were sent to them. & when this was done the amount of Mr. Parker's expenses was asked for.
