

Infirmiry, four of their more- from three-week trips to the seriously-affected mates were White Sea. The St. Leander receiving similar treatment. had a catch of about 14,000st.
later they too were allowed to and the Davy about 12,000st.

Dear Walter,

This is the best I can do for the December Quarter, but it maybe of some use.

They are hoping to be able to raise the "St. Leander" from the bottom of the Humbers at the next dead low neaps when the fresh water floods have subsided, but local 'long-shore' opinion is that they'll never get her up again even if they find her suddenly that we were taken by surprise," he said. "The St.

Leander started to heel over as she made more and more water."

Anyway I'll keep you posted as to further developments, and in the meantime perhaps I would be better to withhold any definite
"posting" in the book.

All the best for 1951

Yours
Bob
