

COPY.

8th July, 1938.

Dear Mr. Macdonald,

With reference to our conversation on the telephone last night, regarding the case of the "AYMERIC", it has been found necessary to ask you to break your return journey to Glasgow, to permit your calling at this Office on Monday morning.

You should make your own arrangements as regards Notebooks, but I don't quite know whether their production will be essential at this stage.

In all the circumstances we wired you officially today, and have instructed Glasgow that you will not be taking up duty until Tuesday morning.

With kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

G. H. Macdonald, Esq.,
c/o J. Macdonald, Esq.,
126, Carbery Avenue,
BOURNEMOUTH.

© 2021

Lloyd's Register
Foundation

W1166-0162