Dear Sir,

Reverting to my letter of yesterday respecting the fleet of the Compagnie des Messageries Maritimes, I fear that a misunderstanding would arise from the last part of the first sentence.

In order to make the question clear, I think it well to modify my sentence as follows :

" it appears, as far as we know in the Office,
" that no decision has been taken by the Committee in " regard to the class of the " Commissaire Pierre Lecocq "
" and "Lieutenant de Latour", the two other steamers
" being recorded in the Supplement N° I as having had
" their class withdrawn with three dots.(...)

Yours faithfully,

The Secretary

In order to make the question clear, I think best of the first sentence.

I feel that a misunderstanding would arise from the use
 the first of the Committee has been mentioned.
