Dear Sellex,

I examined the Auxiliary Boiler of the "KINGSWOOD" on my way to Cardiff and got home this afternoon. They are boxing it up and getting steam and if you let them know when you are going to Port Talbot, you can float the valves any day.

Owing to the conversations before I left I forget whether I added the "Subject" to my recommendation in the case of the "MONKSTONE", please add it if necessary.

There will be no expenses for today against the "KINGSWOOD" as I would have no return ticket.

Enter up the journal for me - "all in good order"

Yours sincerely,

(SGD) THOMAS MILLER.
