10th July, 1924.

Dear Colonel Lithgow,

The Chairman is looking forward to the pleasure of meeting you at lunch here on Tuesday, the 15th instant, and talking over the matter of the "CRETASTON", and he therefore thinks it well to send you herewith a copy of some further remarks which have been made by the Chief Ship Surveyor on the subject.

I also enclose for your information a print of the remarks which were submitted to the Technical Committee in November, 1906, regarding cases of buckling of deck plating, and as you are no doubt aware, the suggestions contained therein were approved and adopted by the Committee at that time.

Yours faithfully,

Lieut-Colonel James Lithgow, M.C.,

Kingston Shipbuilding Yard,

PORT GLASGOW.
