SOURCE OF INFORMATION.

"TORÖ"
 The Swedish steamer Torö struck a mine yesterday in the shallow Swedish territorial waters near Falsterbo and had her port side torn open. One of the crew jumped or fell overboard and was picked up by another vessel, but the rest of the crew remained on board the Torö, the forepart of which is stated to be above water. The Torö, which was built at Malmö in 1924 as the Frykholm, is a vessel of 1467 tons gross, owned by the Rederi-a.b. Rex (Mr. K. M. Källström, manager), Stockholm.

LL 13/12/39

The SWEDISH steamer Torö (1,467 tons) was sunk by a mine yesterday inside Swedish waters, between Trelleborg and Falsterbo, but the crew were rescued. The mine had apparently broken loose from the German mine- the south entrance of the Sound.

From Our Own Correspondent
 STOCKHOLM, Tuesday.
 The Swedish steamer Toroe, 1,477 tons, has struck a German mine in territorial waters off Falsterbo, Sweden, and sank. All her crew were saved. The Toroe is now completely blocking the channel and a salvage vessel is on its way to the spot.
 Survivors of the crew of the Greek steamer Garoufalia, 8,000 tons, were brought into Namsos, Norway. Her captain stated that she was torpedoed without warning while on the way to fetch ore for Holland. Four of the crew were killed and six wounded.
