

Steamer "MANX ISLES".

In reply to inquiry, the British Molasses Co. state that the auxiliary boiler of this vessel is not in use, the boiler referred to by the Havre Surveyors being one of the main boilers.

They add that in the event of the auxiliary boiler being required for use, the same would be submitted for survey, and that in the meantime they would be quite agreeable to the vessel's class being subject to this boiler not being used.
