

LIST & SHIPPING GAZETTE, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 22, 1931

CYCLOPE (dredger).—London, Apr. 20.—
The tug NORMAN has returned to Hull without finding any trace of the missing dredger Cyclope, which it is feared sank in the gale of Saturday night (Apr. 18) while being towed from the Tyne to Havre. The United Towing Company, Ltd., owners of the tug which had the Cyclope in tow, stated that they understand there was no one on board the dredger. Heavy seas were encountered by the tug on her way down the Yorkshire coast on Saturday night and the tow rope parted 15 miles south east of Flamborough Head shortly before midnight. A hail blizzard was in progress at the time and the dredger was lost sight of. Another tug was dispatched from the Humber to assist in the search. Floating timber was seen in the vicinity at daybreak. The search has been abandoned and the tugs have returned to Hull.

© 2020

WCHH-0115

Lloyd's Register
Foundation