Messrs. The Haverpool Engineering & Machine Co. attend at their works, Haverpool, on the 25th June 1906 and on subsequent date for the purpose of examining and testing an evaporator (Higgins Patent) No 652 intended to be fitted on board a vessel by Messrs.
Mastchappij, Rotterdam.

The evaporator was in the presence of the undersigned subjected to an hydraulic pressure, the shell to fifty pounds (50 lbs) and the coils to three hundred and sixty pounds (360 lbs) per sq. inch and under these pressures found satisfactory.
