The vessel is laid up and the Boiler Survey became due in

In reply to enquiry the Owners wrote on the 20th ultimo that the main boilers were not in use, but that steam was raised on auxiliary boiler for the monthly routine work.

In reply to further enquiry they now state that they expect to hear any day that the vessel has been sold and, in the circumstances, they ask for an extension of a few weeks. If the vessel remains with them they will have the desired inspection carried out.

It is submitted action be deferred for a short time.
