

S.S. "T.H.SKOGLAND" ex "JAVARY".

This ex-German vessel has completed the survey for classification at Hamburg. She was built at Hamburg in 1915 and has been running on six-monthly certificates.

When the case for classification was dealt with in this Office the Surveyors were requested to satisfy themselves regarding, amongst other matters, the arrangement of pillaring in the vessel and they now report that this is considered satisfactory. At the same time they forward plans of the pillars and girders. These have been examined and compared with the requirements of the Rules and are found generally equivalent thereto. In a few of the spans the stresses, as computed in the ordinary manner, are somewhat higher than the practice of the Society.

It is submitted that in the circumstances, and in view of the satisfactory report of the Surveyors, made after the vessel had been in service for a considerable period, the arrangements as shown on the plans might be recommended for approval.
