14th December, 1905.

Gentlemen,

I am in receipt of Mr. Beveridge's letter of the 13th instant, having further reference to the formula given in my letter of the 1st instant for computing the nominal horse power in the case of the Turbine Steamer "BINGERA".

As the auxiliary boiler in this vessel is not fitted with forced draught and will not usually be worked in conjunction with the main boilers, I am directed to state that the Builders' proposal to amend the formula as given in your letter is considered to be reasonable, and in this case therefore the nominal horse power for estimating the fees may be taken as 583.

I am, Gentlemen,

Your obedient Servant,

Secretary.

The Surveyors,

BELFAST.
