Motor Trawler "PORT LEVEN"
-----

It is submitted the Bergen Surveyors be informed that, with regard to the present steering gear, two independent means of steering are required as stated in the Trawler Rules, but one of these may be a hand tiller.

When the vessel is converted to a cargo ship, the secondary means of steering should consist of a right and left hand screw gear or an arrangement of blocks and tackle or other suitable equivalent arrangement.

8th July, 1946.
